 *Remarks: Entire tower from 1937 was replaced in the 1953 enlargement; this was significantly remodelled in 1983.
 Original installation contained 18 bells apparently by P. Hemony, 1674; 16 (later 12) by Joris du Mery, 1737;
 one apparently by A. van den Gheyn 1784; reportedly all collected (and some retuned) by Omer Michaux, Louvain, Belgium; thus this was thought to be the only pre-19th century carillon in North America. However, investigations c.2003 confirmed old suspicions that the "Hemony" bells were forgeries made by Michaux (or Michiels) using plaster casts of bells which existed elsewhere.
 The duMery bells have been traced to St.Salvatorkerk, Harelbeke, Belgium.
 One original bell (broken) was replaced in the 1953 enlargement, and the two smallest duMery originals were replaced in the 1977 enlargement.
 Meeks, Watson & Co. replaced top 20 in 2006; dedicated 10 June.

 *Remarks:
 1966 expansion was 2 trebles borrowed from Cranbrook's disused duplicates, cast in 1928.
 1974 work replaced #31-53,54-55, which were put into storage, and cast #56-68 but did not install them.
 1976 console changed transposition, and had space for a half octave of those trebles, but they were never installed.
 Three practice consoles:
 original Taylor (renovated 1992), Meeks & Watson (new 1992),
 and Dutch standard.
 The 2011 restoration involved reversion to the 1936 Taylor console and treble bells, with new clappers. The 1976 console, the 3 octaves of 1974 trebles and their clappers are in storage, but the disposition of the 2 borrowed Cranbrook trebles has not been reported.
